(00:00) are you looking for a simple yet powerful trading strategy that will allow you to take along from the exact bottom like this or like this well my friend you have come to the right video I'm about to show you the very simple strategy that I use to take trades like this all the time so make sure to like the video subscribe to the channel and click the bell for notifications because you are not going to find this juicy content Elsewhere on YouTube this is going to be a six minute strategy okay a six minute strategy people ask why the

(00:28) six minute don't worry about why the six minute is the time frame that will work best for the strategy and we are going to be using an indicator called Market Cipher okay Market Cipher is my favorite indicator to use in trading view it will give you information that no other indicator can give you in trading View and it can give you information that you would need to spend a lot of time and a lot of study to find out in any other way so what I'm going to be looking at on Market Cipher is two specific things I'm going to be looking at the momentum

(00:57) waves and I'm going to be looking at the money flow and those are the two things I'm going to be looking at as you can see I have split my market Cipher up into two different indicators right in order to do that you're going to just load Market Cipher B twice and then click the uh gear and you can check the things that you want on now again I don't usually separate my market Cipher but for the sake of this strategy we are going to be basically separating them so we can see the signals more clearly so what is the strategy it's basically this

(01:27) guys we are going to be first of all under standing key zones of support and resistance alright this is so important for any Trader to know support and resistance is the bread and butter of every single Trader what is that what is support and resistance support and resistance is basically historically any place that price has found a sticking point all right so when we're looking at a chart we can just draw out with our eyes zones of support and resistance and say okay this is a key level because price found resistance here once

(01:57) resistance here twice three times four times now we break out so we would look to this level as support and we could say also down here this is obviously going to be a key level of support because price found resistance here once then we found support once support twice three times and so we know if we come back down to this area we will be looking for support once again now this is a very very simplified version of finding support and resistance but this is really all we need Traders have the propensity to over complicate their

(02:25) trading and the more we can simplify it down the better we don't need to over complicate things unless you're trying to be a ninja scalper or something like that which is very fun but it does take a little bit more skill we don't need to over complicate things and if you want to learn in depth uh technical analysis check out the website Jason caspertrading.

(02:44) com we got two courses here the intro to crypto trading program this will basically take you from somebody who doesn't know anything about trading to being a competent profitable Trader because we give you that point A to point B system where you always know where you're looking to enter your next trade stop loss take profit all that we also have an advanced course right here that goes over Market profile TPO basically reading charts that look similar to this right here okay so once we have our areas of support and resistance marked

(03:09) out in the chart that's where we are going to then open up our indicator and tell ourselves okay if price comes to one of our areas of resistance or support we're now going to be looking for two things we are going to be looking for a Divergence what is a Divergence a Divergence guys is when price and the momentum oscillator do the opposite so for a great example if we see that the price is getting higher like it is right here right we can see that the price continues to get higher but we see that the oscillator continues to get lower

(03:41) this is called a bearish Divergence why is this a bearish Divergence because think about it if a money is leaving the asset yet the price is getting higher what does that tell us unsustainable move and there needs to be a correction right there needs to be some kind of a correction and the opposite is true for bullish Divergence right if we see that the price is getting lower here and yet we see that the um let's say for example here that the momentum had gotten higher that is a bullish Divergence right so we're basically going to be looking for

(04:12) divergences with momentum and money flow at the same time and we're going to be doing this on the six minute time frame okay on the six minute time frame so let's see here we're going to go back in time and look for every single time where we did get a Divergence with momentum and money flow so it just in the past few uh days we have had multiple trades we could have taken using this strategy for example right here we get a big move to the upside and when we take a look at our oscillator we are seeing that we are printing lower

(04:44) momentum waves and we see that we are printing lower money flow over time now look at this also it's very important that we know where do we actually take the trade from because we could see the higher price and the lower uh stuff happening before we actually get to this level but it's very important that we wait for price to actually come to the level of resistance or support that we have marked out that's where we're going to always get the best entry okay now we see it again when we come down to the low of this range right here okay this

(05:13) is one of the trades that we actually took in the Casper crew VIP Discord and the Casper crew VIP Discord you know we're looking for these levels all the time in fact just recently you can see here in the the Casper crew that you know yesterday we were looking for a take profit from the short rear end and a bounce from this key level right here the golden pocket VY value Air High Point and control at around 32 100 and of course that level did not disappoint guys because we got our bounce right from there now they would

(05:42) get our bounce right from there but we also got a massive pump from there and this is basically what we're looking for in the Casper crew where we post our trade setups every single day our levels every single day we post levels WE Post tray setups we give confirmations what we're looking for we do three live streams every single day and by the way if you want to join the Casper crew you can go to patreon.

(06:03) com forward slash Jason Casper it's not a signals group guys but it is a technical analysis group and you will learn a bunch in that Discord so look once again price is making a lower low but now we see the Divergence price uh the momentum is making a higher low and the money flow is making also a higher low so what did we do we literally shorted the exact top and along the exact bottom and guys this level by the way this exact bottom was a level that we gave in the Casper crew like to the exact dollar I'm not kidding you look at this entry

(06:35) right here right is that not the juiciest entry in the world it's because we had this level marked out because we were doing our technical analysis as all good Traders should do all right so that is what we're going to be looking for and then let's see if we can see any more trades that we could have taken here now check this out right we come back up to our area of resistance here let's see if we get any traits okay so we're looking for uh right here this would have been a no trade because we don't get both divergences then we are

(07:02) looking for up here this actually would have been a trade to take from this area Okay this would have been a successful trade where we could have gotten a move to the downside of about you know about point eight percent which is absolutely acceptable for a scalp trade let's see where else we could have taken a trade from we could have taken one literally from the exact top of this move as well guys just by looking at the fact that we're making a higher high but the money flow and the momentum was very important they have to be both are

(07:32) making lower highs okay this trading strategy is so simple and people I guess you know some people they don't like Simplicity they think it needs to be complicated they think it needs to be hard you got ta snobs out there that are like saying no you know it's too it's too simple you got to over complicate it you need moving averages you need Elliott waves you need a market profile and and Order flow and you need all these different things no you know the more you can simplify your trading guys the better right the more you can

(08:04) simplify your trading the better so let's talk about risk management because again every single strategy that you use to take trades if it is not combined with a good risk management system you are going to lose money I could literally tell you the exact top and the exact bottom of every move and you would still lose money if you didn't have a risk management strategy why is that because risk management gives you three things all right it gives you an entry clearly defined which is our support and resistance level it gives you an exit if

(08:33) things go against you which is your stop loss and it gives you an exit if things get for you which is your take profit okay it's very very important why is it so important the reason why it's so important guys is because if you do not have an exit strategy you could hold a win into a loss or you could hold a loss into more of a loss than it should be right which is very very key hang on I do have to check something on my phone real quick guys because New York has just opened and I need to close a trade that is in profit and I don't want it to

(09:03) turn into a loss right [Music] um yeah okay cool all right so that is why it's so important to have a risk management strategy in play and this is something we go over in the course but let me tell you if you are new to trading you need to get your risk management down on point because that is the most important thing even more important than having a strategy so here's how we're going to manage our risk right once we see that Divergence what we're going to do is our stop loss goes above the last high right so our

(09:34) stop loss will always go above the last High right for more information on position size and risk management make sure to check out the course because we go into extreme detail what I like to do guys when I'm scalping on the six minute is I take half the trade out after a point five percent move and then I hold the rest and take profit along the way down what this does is it ensures a win and after I tp1 I always move that stop loss to the entry as well right basically ensures that I'm winning but if the trade is going to run it will run

(10:04) and let me tell you most of the time when you get this signal the trade will run the money flow and the momentum wage the trade will run so that's how I deal with the stop loss and the take profit tp1 at a point five percent move 50 stop loss to entry and then I will take profits along the way down to the next support if I'm shorting the opposite is true for with if I am longing right I will put my stop loss below the low after a 0.

(10:30) 5 move typically it will change depending on the context you have to trade out stop loss to entry and then set TPS along the way up and if you want you can let a little bit of it run right that's that's literally what I have done uh for some of these some of these scalp trays I am in right now right um I mean you can see for example this trade right here you know I had a much much bigger position size it was over a hundred thousand dollars worth when I answered it now it's like 30 something thousand dollars I'm letting a little bit run in case we go straight off to

(10:58) pump City but let me tell you I was taking profits on this trade when we were down in this area right so guys that's it for this video I hope you found it very helpful make sure to like subscribe click the Bell if you did may God bless everybody in the name of Jesus the Messiah even if you're not super religious I hope everyone has a great weekend and I'll see y'all in the next video peace
